WCB Biosecurity Guidelines

Ensuring proper biosecurity at horse shows is essential to protect the health and wellbeing of all horses in attendance. Preparation begins at home, well in advance of travel.

1. Horse Health and Readiness
Confirm that your horse is in good health, up to date on vaccinations, and fit for travel and competition prior to attending any event.
2.Stall Preparation
Thoroughly clean and disinfect any stall your horse will occupy. Remove all manure, soiled bedding, and debris. Wash stall surfaces with soap and water, and for added protection, consider using a disinfectant solution such as a 1:15 bleach-to-water ratio.
2. Minimize Contact
Take responsibility for your horse's wellbeing. It is appropriate to ask others not to touch your horse, and you should extend the same courtesy to fellow exhibitors. Avoid unnecessary contact between horses, including nose-to-nose interaction.
4.Temperature Monitoring
Monitor your horse's temperature regularly, as fever can be an early indicator of illness even when no other symptoms are present. Checking temperature twice daily during the show, as well as before and after travel, is strongly recommended.
5.Avoid Sharing Equipment
Do not share equipment such as brushes, tack, or water hoses, as many infectious conditions can be transmitted through shared items. Bringing your own supplies helps reduce the risk of disease transmission.
6.Stabling Considerations
Where possible, position your horse to limit direct contact with others while still allowing visual comfort. Using tack stalls or leaving space between horses can help reduce exposure.
7.Consultation and Communication
If you have any concerns regarding biosecurity, consult your veterinarian and communicate with show management for guidance and support.

Due to unforeseeable problems with any mechanical device, the public address system and paddock call's over that system must be considered a courtesy. It is the responsibility of the exhibitor to be sure that their horse is at the gate at the prescribed time. Every effort will be made to maintain a working public address system to carry class calls, however no protest will be upheld, nor will any section or class be changed based on the public address system malfunctions. *****
